The Masonry Industry Committee is a voluntary association of organizations representing all major segments of the masonry industry—product producers, contractors and craftsmen. The Committee addresses itself to problems that affect the entire masonry industry. One of these problems is the design and construction of weatherproof masonry walls.

The Committee has embarked on a program of work that ultimately will lead to the creation of a recommended practice guide for weatherproof masonry walls. Until such a guide is available, this bibliography of existing literature will be a useful source of information for designers, contractors, craftsmen, and building owners.

The bibliography lists subject material under five headings: Design, Materials, Construction, Paints and Coatings, and General. Within each category, material is listed alphabetically by author or sponsor.
